Postal Vessels of the French Postal Administration a.k.a. Paquebots de l'Administration (1837 - 1851)

According to an advertizement of the Postal Administration made public on 07.04.37; regular services between the port of Marseille and the scales of the Eastern Mediterranean were to commence on 01.05.37. The first known tariff was established as to take place once every ten days beginning with departures from Marseille on the first day of every month. The return voyages from Istanbul were to take place beginning on the sixth day of every month. For this purpose, ten wooden vessels with complimentary steam engines were built at Navy Shipyards to be introduced into service where the Scamandre and the Lycurgue for Alexandria; whilst the Eurotas, the Rhameses, the Dante, the Léonidas, the Tancrède, the Minos, the Sésostris and the Mentor began their maiden voyages towards Istanbul. It is interesting to note that the vessels to ply this course all carried two canons each and were considered to be War Ships by all parties concerned; i.e. did not pay port dues at foreign destinations. To compliment this service; local Agents were appointed in Istanbul and İzmir as of 01.04.37 as well as in Kal'â ı Sultâniye from 01.05.37 and in Beirout from 04.11.45. These offices used two types of single frame rectangular positive seals reading “Paquebots de la Méditerranée” in three lines well until 1872. Furthermore, every ship carried a “Postal Agent” with a special canceler to frank covers generated on board as well as to counter-frank those collected at different scales along the trajectory. As the commercial activity between Western and Eastern Scales of the Mediterranean developed at a very rapid pace; two more vessels already in service between Marseille and Malta since 1843, i.e. the *Péricle*s [I] and the Télémaque joined the Istanbul trajectory by 01.12.45 and 21.02.46 respectively. Approximately two and a half years later; vessels already in service to Alexandria ever since mid 1844 with an extension to Beirout as of 04.11.45, were also diverted to the Istanbul trajectory; namely, the Caire, the Egyptus, the Osiris, the Louqsor, the Alexandre and finally the Nil [I].

Packet Boats of the Mediterranean a.k.a. Messageries Impériales / Maritimes (1851 - 1873 / 1914)

The French Government having created a state owned sailing service in 1835 between Marseilles and the Levant; postal material was carried on these vessels on an irregular basis until an agreement between the French State and the Company known as the “Messageries Nationales” was signed on 28.02.51 to regulate the exploitation of maritime postal services for a duration of twenty years on a tariff of three sailings per month for Istanbul as well as a departure every twentieth day for Alexandria to include all the scales of the Levant south of İzmir. The Agreement having been ratified by an act of parlement by early July the same year; all previous vessels in use at the time of the signature were transferred to the new fleet of “la Compagnie des Services Maritimes des Messageries Nationales” which was re-designated within a year as “la Compagnie des Services Maritimes des Messageries Impériales” by January 1853. Consequently; the Léonidas, the Nil [I], the Tancrède, the Osiris, the Caire, the Eurotas, the Alexandre, the Louqsor, the Scamandre, the Mentor, the Télémaque, the Egyptus and finally the Lycurgue were to set sail from Marseille under new ownership. As the Company was under constant pressure to serve an ever expanding range of French interests throughout the world; thirteen ships in different states of construction at various British shipyards were also bought, namely; the Euphrate, the Gange, the Indus, the Hydaspe, the La Clyde, the Tamise, the Simoïs, the Jourdain, the Mitidjah, the Chéliciff, the Borystène, the Méandre and finally the Mersey whilst the Ville de Bordeaux and the Ville de Marseille already in operation on the Northern Scales of Africa; were rented to the ‘La Compagnie André & Abeille’ to compliment the auxiliary services of Piraeus station. Since these new additions were far from being adequate for services already envisioned; the Henry IV, the Sully and the Tage from La Compagnie Impériale; the Mérovée, the Pharamond, the Philippe Auguste and the Sphinx from La Compagnie Bazin - Périer as well as the Bosphore and the Oronte from La Compagnie Rostand were also bought. But when it was realized that as the company continued to grow rapidly on a very demanding and competitive race to assure a constantly increasing volume of transport as well of communication throughout the Mediterranean Basin; twenty six new vessels were ordered to various French shipyards from late 1854 well until mid 1866 whilst new acquisitions as well as new construction at different shipyards continued well until the onset of First World War to replace old or lost vessels. During the War; many a Messageries vessel was requisitioned by the French Navy to serve as a troop carrier or a hospital ship.
